DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 16-19 and 22-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chase in view of Chase.

Chase teaches a self-boosting friction brake , comprising a friction brake lining, an actuation device with which the friction brake lining can be pressed for braking against a brake body to be braked, a ramp mechanism (Figures 2 and3) that extends at an angle to the brake body and that braces the friction brake lining on being pressed against the brake body, the friction brake lining being supported displaceably in a direction of rotation of the brake body by roller bodies on the ramp mechanism, wherein the ramp mechanism has at least two ramps, a first ramp thereof being provided on a side of the friction brake lining facing away from the brake body and having a path extending in an inclined fashion the direction of rotation of the brake body, a second ramp thereof being diametrically opposite the first ramp and having a path inclined in complementary fashion to the path of the first ramp; and wherein the roller bodies are present which roll on tracks of the ramps and a positive controller (30,32) for the roller bodies, which prevents the roller bodies from leaving their respective tracks. The examiner takes official notice that electrical actuation via a motor is known for lever actuated brake assemblies.

Art Unit: 3657

Re claims 26-29, the examiner takes official notice that rollers are often used in place of balls as rolling elements.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 20 and 21 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Price et al. teach a similar friction brake.

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
